Off the main tourist routes, the journey highlights spectacular geology, desert game and scenery in the open air. Relish that sense of achievement that is a part of pedalling one's way through the vast, changing landscapes and relax at the day's end with evening drinks under a multitude of stars.

~Itinerary~

Days 1 & 2: Save the Rhino Camp, Ugab

After arrival in Windhoek, we are met by our guides and drive to the stunning monolith of Brandberg, on the banks of the Ugab River. We enjoy a warm-up ride of 40 kilometres to the Save the Rhino campsite, our Adventurer campsite that is pre-erected under the shade of immense Acacia trees.

On Day 2 we cycle to the old zinc mine, enjoying steep climbs, thrilling downhill and exhilarating challenges the route presents. Our afternoon is spent relaxing at the camp and exploring the Ugab riverbed.

Day 3: Damaraland Camp, Damaraland

Today we embark on the longest stage - a route of 90km through changing habitats to Damaraland Camp. This also creates a wonderful opportunity to find elephant and rhino en route, as well as view gemsbok, springbok and giraffe.

Day 4: Palmwag Campsite, Damaraland

Damaraland has a desolate, volcanic landscape with small rock-strewn plains where long-ago glaciers once moved. Our 80km ride traverses this incredible panorama and is the heart of black rhino country, creating a challenging but highly rewarding ride.

Day 5: Palmwag Rhino Camp, Damaraland

After a short exciting ride of 40 kilometres through black rhino country, we then enjoy an afternoon tracking rhino on foot with the specialist Save the Rhino trackers. We end with sunset drinks, taking in the isolated beauty of Damaraland

Day 6: Transfer to Windhoek

After breakfast we transfer by road to Windhoek and bid farewell to the adventure.
